The Nicest Man on Earth

[music & crowd sounds]

Narrator: Today we're interviewing Fred, the nicest man on earth.

Fred: Well thanks.

Bob: Hey Fred, remember me? You helped me move last year.

Fred: Oh yeah, Bob, hope you like the new place.

Bob: Wow, he remembered my name.

Narrator: Yes, everyone who knows Fred, likes Fred.

Jack: Fred, thanks for all your help!

Narrator: Everyone would agree, if anyone will get into Heaven, Fred will.

Doreen: Fred, I really appreciate you helping my boy with sports.

Narrator: Yes, Fred is a great guy. But his goodness won't get him into Heaven.

Fred: It won't?

Narrator: The Bible says that Heaven is a gift from God, not something we earn.

Fred: Really? Wait, if you can't earn your way to Heaven, what's the point of being good?

Narrator: Being good is something you do out of gratefulness to God once you have accepted his gift.

Fred: So, being good doesn't count at all?

Narrator: When do you know when you've done enough good, Fred?

Fred: Well uh . . .

Narrator: Fred, that's the point. We can't do enough. That's why God offers to forgive us if we will just admit we need his help.
