A Question For God

---

Frank: Hey! I hear you won the chance to have God answer any question you ask.

Bob: Yes, I did.

Frank: What are you going to ask?

Bob: "Why do your shoestrings only break when you're in a hurry?" You know how that is? You're late for an interview . . .

Frank: Wait, wait. That's it?!

Bob: Uh . . . yeah.

Frank: You can ask God ANYTHING. Why don't you ask Him something profound, like, "What's the meaning of Life?"

Bob: I thought about that, but that was answered through King Solomon in the Bible.

Frank: Oh. Well then, how about, "Why do bad things happen to good people?"

Bob: The Book of Job answers that. I wanted to ask something the Bible doesn't address.

Frank: What about what does God want you to do?

Bob: The Book of John, chapter 6. I tell you, with all the answers the Bible has, reading it is like having God right there in your living room. The thing I didn't see addressed was shoestrings.

Frank: Oh . . . okay. By the way, stressful situations cause you to use excessive force, thus you break your shoestrings.

Bob: Fine. Now I have to come up with another question.
