Amazing Alan – Gasoline

- Director: We're here with Amazing Alan who will attempt to put out this small campfire using this pail of clear liquid.
- Alan: So, I'm going to illustrate how to properly put out a campfire?
- Director: No Alan. The campfire represents someone who is angry. You're going to illustrate the wrong way to handle an angry person.
- Alan: Oh, okay.
- Director: And action!
- Alan: Okay kids, remember, when putting out a fire, pour the water directly on the (Whoosh) Whoa!!! Guys! Major fire here!!! What do I do?
- Director: Use more liquid Alan!
- Alan: Okay! (Whoosh) This ain't helping!!!
- Director: That's right Alan! When we answer an angry person harshly, it's like pouring gasoline on a fire.
- Alan: This is gasoline?
- Director: The Bible says a gentle answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger. When dealing with someone who is angry, we need to be gentle and answer with patience and kindness.
- Alan: Oh, I get it. But was it really necessary to burn off my eyebrows to make this point guys?
